

2 IT-specialist in the scientific project

“Smart-Contract Protocols: Theory for Applications” (PROCONTRA)

financed by the European Commission (grant agreement no 885666)

The ERC project “Smart-Contract Protocols: Theory for Applications” (PROCONTRA), led by prof. dr hab. Stefan Dziembowski, is offering 2 research and technical specialist positions in the Institute of Informatics at the Faculty of Mathematics, Informatics, and Mechanics of the University of Warsaw.

Terms of employment

Selected candidates will be employed on research assistant position (pol. Specjalista badawczo-techniczny) on 60-85% working time. The duration of employment is 1 year with possible prolongation for another 1 year (if the project is extended). The expected starting date is around the 15th of January 2024, up to an agreement between the candidate and the principal investigator. The salary of the position for 85% FTE will be approximately PLN 8 746.50 (PLN 4 284 base salary plus project bonus). The position comes with no teaching obligations and a travel budget. The selected candidates will work on problems in the area of cryptography with applications to blockchain and smart contracts.

Description of the project

Project PROCONTRA focuses on studying challenging problems in the area of smart contracts and blockchain. The main emphasis is on fundamental cryptographic techniques. The work within the project will concentrate on the following three directions:

- Modeling security properties of smart contract protocols using cryptographic formalisms.
- Proposing new ideas for smart contract protocols, especially those based on advanced cryptographic techniques.
- Prototype implementation of protocols based on smart contracts.
- Security proofs of the proposed designs.
- Automated verification of these security proofs
- Understanding the limitations of cryptographic techniques in this area.

Requirements

We expect candidates to have a master's degree in mathematics or computer science at the time of hire, and an excellent background in both fields. A good command of English, a good understanding of basic theoretical concepts and programming skills are required.

Responsibilities

The responsibilities of the person who will fill this position will include

- Review of literature on issues related to the subject matter of the PROCONTRA project
- Prototype implementation of individual cryptography protocols.

- Work on the application of TEE technology to blockchain technology
- Proposing theoretical improvements in implementowancy of protocols
- Editing of scientific results in English.

Applications

An application should include Curriculum Vitae that:

- presents an overview of the background and scientific achievements of the candidate;
- describes the candidate's programming and practical experience
- identifies one experienced researcher who can provide a reference for the candidate.

In addition to the above, there should be a scan of signed personal data clause (attached). No research statements are required.

Applications, as well as further questions on both the scientific topic of the project and on formal details of the call procedure, should be directed to prof dr hab. Stefan Dziembowski:

s.dziembowski+procontra@uw.edu.pl

To apply for the position, candidates should send an e-mail and submit the documents as attached .pdf files.

Application deadline: 15th of December, 2024

Applications that do not satisfy the above requirements or are submitted after the deadline will not be considered for the position.

The applications will be evaluated by a selection committee appointed by the Dean of the Faculty of Mathematics, Informatics, and Mechanics, University of Warsaw. The committee may invite the candidate to a meeting, which will be conducted remotely. The results of the competition will be sent to candidates electronically on 31st of December, 2024 at the latest.
