

IT specialist position in the scientific project
Deep optimized generation for antimicrobial peptide discovery (DOG-AMP) financed by the European Commission (grant agreement no 101125506)

The ERC project Deep optimized generation for antimicrobial peptide discovery (DOG-AMP), led by prof. Ewa Szczurek, is offering one collaborator position in the Institute of Informatics at the Faculty of Mathematics, Informatics, and Mechanics of the University of Warsaw.

Terms of employment

Selected candidate will be employed on an IT specialist position on 25% working time. The duration of employment is one year with possible prolongation. The expected starting date is not earlier than the 1st of December 2025, up to an agreement between the candidate and the principal investigator. The offered salary combined (basic salary approx. 1260 PLN gross/month plus project bonus) is around PLN 2260 gross/month.

Description of the project

A particular focus of the offered position will be on novel artificial intelligence methods for antimicrobial peptide design. The artificial intelligence focus will be topological data analysis and their integration into generative AI. The projects involve strong collaborations with international experimental partners. The positions are funded by the prestigious ERC Consolidator grant DOG-AMP.

Requirements

A university degree (at least BSc or Eng.) or minimum of 5 years of work experience (candidates with high school diploma) is a must.

We expect that candidates at the moment of employment have an excellent background in mathematics and computer science. Good command of English is required. A good understanding of fundamental theoretical concepts in generative AI and topological data analysis is needed, as well as strong programming skills combined with a mathematical mindset. The candidates should have interest in addressing clinical and biomedical questions.

Applications

An application should include Curriculum Vitae that presents an overview of the background and scientific achievements of the candidate.

In addition to the above, there should be attached a signed personal data clause (attached).

Applications, as well as further questions on both the scientific topic of the project and on formal details of the call procedure, should be directed to prof. Ewa Szczurek:

em.szczurek@uw.edu.pl

To apply for the position, candidates should send an e-mail and submit the documents as attached .pdf files.

Application deadline: 17th of November, 2025

Applications that do not satisfy the above requirements or are submitted after the deadline will not be considered for the position.

The applications will be evaluated by a selection committee appointed by the Dean of the Faculty of Mathematics, Informatics, and Mechanics, University of Warsaw. The committee may invite the candidate to a meeting, which will be conducted remotely. The results of the competition will be sent to candidates electronically on 20th of November, 2025 at the latest.
